Flexible Chancel

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Atlanta, Georgia

Completed 1996

This project consisted of a two phase renovation. The first phase involved the installation of a new pipe organ and a new rose window. Phase 2 included lowering the elevated choir, a new lighting system, new stone and Moravian tile chancel platform, as well as the design of more flexible chancel furnishings. All of the chancel furnishings (other than the font) are movable to provide a very flexible area which can be arranged for a variety of musical or dramatic events.
